

What happens in the real world?

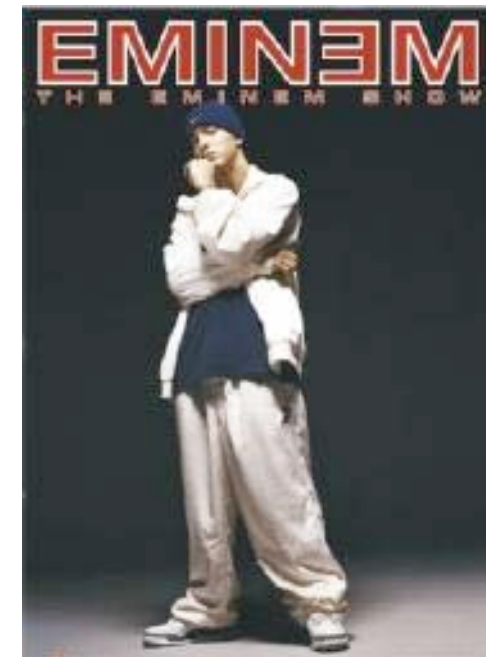

On stage, your favorite
Singers and Actors
dress á la Mode...

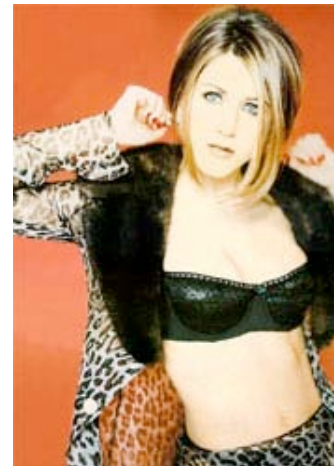

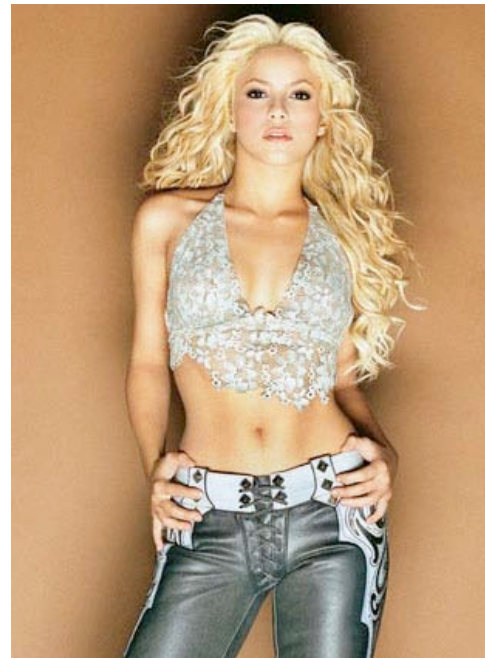

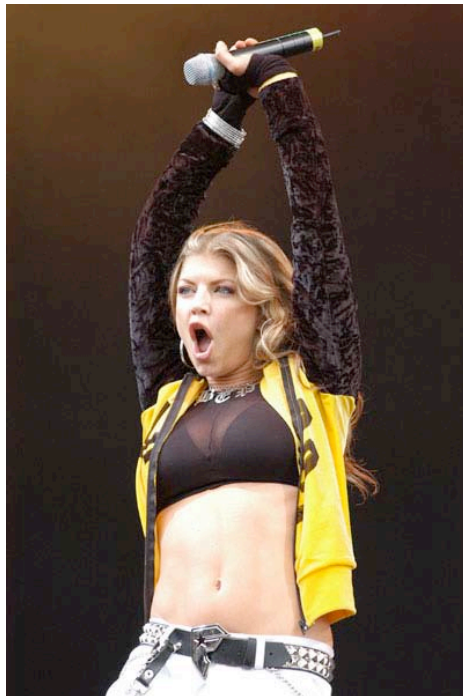

...but they look real relaxed and COOL in the Code...

These gals on the stage dress to perform...

...but out on the town, they prefer to dress down.

What happens at Ambrit?

“I do wish they would fall off when I stand up!”.

“I AM just so cool when I dress by the Code”.

“ I wish I had worn the polka dot ones for the picture, purple isn't my color”.

“ I can dress by the Code and still smile”.

“Maybe if I look real studios they won’t notice what I have on my head”.

“ My brain does work better without that hat”.

“If I hide my head maybe they’ll just look at my fancy boots”.

“Wow, that skirt is far TOO short for the Code”.

The CODE...

Middle School Dress Code : Students are expected to dress appropriately for school. Clothing should be sensitive to the variety of cultures and values represented in the school community and should not detract from the learning environment. The expectations for “appropriate dress” are that students:

- Wear neat and clean clothes, outerwear and footwear.
- Wear proper footwear befitting the climate and weather; no flip-flops.
- Wear clothes covering the shoulders, midriff and cleavage; no spaghetti straps, off the shoulder, halter- tops or tube tops.
- Do not wear see-through clothing.
- Do not dress in a provocative manner.
- Do not wear clothing that displays offensive or inappropriate words, pictures or slogans.
- Do not wear hats including baseball caps, visors and bandanas inside the building.
- Jeans are permitted as long as they do not have tears or holes.
- Ensure trousers are pulled up to the waist so that undergarments are not visible.
- Skirts, dresses and shorts should be no shorter than 10 centimeters above the knee.
- No make-up except for middle school dances.
- Ensure that your clothing does not offend any of our diverse cultural sensitivities.

Please note that the above dress codes apply to field trips, traveling groups and other school related activities. The final judgment on the appropriateness of student dress will rest with the Principal.

Consequences for Infringements of the Dress Code

1. Students who do not honor the dress code will be asked on the first occasion to secure alternative clothing from the office at a rental of 10.00 euros which will be donated to one of the Ambrit charities.
2. For a second infraction of the dress code students will follow the above protocol and will be required to contact home via telephone.
2. If a third infraction of the dress code should occur then the student will be sent home accompanied by a note indicating the expected school dress. If, for any reason, sending the student home is not possible, then the student will remain at school, but not in class. In this case the student is responsible for making up any missed school work. In addition, on that day the student will not be permitted to participate in after- school activities.
